PATENT OFFICE BUSY PLACE

Last Year Broke All Records in the Number of Inventions That Were Filed.

Last year was a record year in volume if not quality of inventions. Applications for patents reaching the patent office during 1919 approached the unprecedented number of 70,000, more than any year's output. The increase grew with the year, Aaron Hardy Cox writes in the Nation's Business. Those for the third quarter exceeded by 51 per cent for a similar same quarter in 1918.

Invention, of course, did not suspend during the war, but, at least in volume of production, it diminished. And a great proportion of that which did function related to war objects. But at noon on November 11, 1918, the great war became as ancient to the inventor as the Peloponnesian conflicts of long ago.

In October, 1919, there reached the division of the patent office handling metallurgical inventions a total of 602 applications for patents. In one division handling chemical subjects—there are several chemical divisions—450 applications were filed; in the agricultural implement division, 374 applications arrived; and the division dealing with vehicle wheels and such appurtenances received 729 applications, about one-half of which related to resilient tires. This last item discloses the fact that inventions for the automobile industry best reflect the current work of the patent office.

In October, for instance, 441 applications went to the division that handles automobile engines and parts. That, considering frame work and gearing, received 550.

"MARK 'EM ALL QUARTERS"

Simple Method by Which Medical Sergeant Solved Monetary Complication Arising in Crap Game.

The international complications of the monetary system of the crap game were even more confusing than usual, for the players had but recently arrived in France via England. American silver, English shillings and French francs were scattered about the barracks floor, and the voices of the players were raised in angry protest over the financial differences between francs and shillings. Finally they decided to appeal to the only non-player present, a medical sergeant who lay half asleep on his bunk.

"Sarge," they asked. "This here small change has got us all foxed. I win a shillin' off Bill and he gives me a franc and I say he still owes me two big clackers and he says he don't. Can't you suggest somethin' to simplify the darn thing?"

The medico, who had had a hard struggle with would-be invalids at sick call that day, rolled over sleepily.

"Aw, mark 'em all quarters," he grunted.—Home Sector.

Britain Needs New Houses.

It has been estimated that 800,000 new houses are needed in the United Kingdom to properly house the population. All building was at a standstill throughout the war. Because of the enormous increase in building materials and the increased cost of labor these houses cannot be built for less than twice the amount they would have cost in 1914. Thousands of big houses in London are for sale, but these are of no use to newlyweds, who in most instances cannot afford to maintain them, nor can they get the servants necessary to keep up such establishments. It has been found too costly to try to convert many of these houses into apartments. They now are monuments to prewar and opulent family life in London, when servants were employed by the dozen.

Uncle Sam Is the "Auto Boy."

America is the automobile center of the world. There were in all Christendom, on July 30, 1919, approximately 7,884,000 automobiles, and 6,500,000 were in the United States, according to a survey by the Alexander Hamilton institute of New York. We have, therefore, nearly five times as many automobiles as all other countries combined. The 1,384,000 automobiles not in the United States when the survey was made, last July, were distributed as follows: Great Britain, 415,000; Canada, 300,000; France, 200,000; Germany, 75,000; Italy, 35,000; Argentina, 35,000; the Netherlands, 20,000; Russia, 15,000; Japan, 3,000; all other countries, 321,000.

"See here," said the manager of an automobile sales agency, "what did you mean by wasting your time showing that rough looking fellow a $8,000 car? A flivver would be about his size."

"I thought so, too, at first," replied the smart salesman, "but I noticed a great deal of grime under his fingernails and in his eyebrows and hair. I immediately sized him up as a wage earner and not a salaried man."

"Well?"

"He bought the car."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hypodermic Vaccination.

Maj. J. R. Goodall of the Canadian army has vaccinated 6,000 soldiers and children by injecting the virus with a hypodermic syringe. There were no accidents and he claims for this method that the wound does not become infected; no dressings are needed. There are more "takes," the reaction of the system is slighter and the operation is done more quickly.

FINDING MISSING PERSONS IS NEVER-ENDING TASK

The Salvation Army, because of its branches in every country in the world, conducts what is probably one of the most efficient of detective bureaus. It is the Bureau of Missing Persons, which sends out daily alarms to all sections in its efforts to find those who have disappeared.

In the United States over 1,800 inquiries for missing persons come into the Salvation Army each year, and in spite of the meagerness of the available information, in spite of the fact that a large proportion of those who are missing do not want to be found, in spite of the obstacles and hindrances [illegible] are located by the Salvation [illegible] a year.

There [illegible]ld who runs away from home [illegible] the terrors of cold and hunger [illegible]othing to him compared to the [illegible] school and teacher. There is [illegible] who finds it easier to desert than to support the family that he thinks is too exacting. There is the woman who feels that the river or the open gas jet is less terrifying than the hardships of life. For all these and many others the Salvation Army is conducting a vigilant, unceasing search.

And the methods used in finding the delinquents are as varied as the causes of their disappearance. Sometimes an overlooked clue, an old letter or the address of a friend leads to the end of the search. Sometimes a paragraph inserted in the War Cry—the Salvation Army publication, which is circulated in every country in the world—or in other mediums calculated to catch the eye, will bring the missing one home. Sometimes the man or woman hunt goes on for years, only in the end to become one of those unsolved mysteries that the world speculates upon for a month or two and then promptly forgets.

Sugar's Real Value.

A cane sugar solution injected directly into the blood is apparently unfit for assimilation, for it is eliminated by the kidneys unchanged. The real value of sugar seems to be that the carbon obtained from its disintegration is available for forming the gas known as carbureted hydrogen or methane, which seems indispensable to the growth and respiratory processes of all living organisms.—American Food Journal.

Wanted Useful Article.

A suit having been brought against a defendant, his counsel interposed a demurrer that had the effect to throw it out of court. Soon afterward the same lawyer was elected to congress, and while at his post of duty he was surprised one day to receive a letter from his former client, saying: "I am sued again. Please send me another one of them things they call demurrers."

Everybody's Doing It.

"A year ago people didn't think of the possibility that a fire had been set," said a New York fire insurance adjuster. "Now they don't think of anything else. The other day I had to investigate a small fire. 'What do you think was the cause?' I asked the janitor. 'It looks to me,' said he, 'like the friction between a $500 value and a $1,000 policy.'"

Family Pride.

Strolling into a grocer's shop the other day, a little boy asked for half a pound of margarine. He was being served, and the shopman was about to wrap the margarine up in paper, when the lad exclaimed: "Please, sir, my muver wants to know if yer'll stamp a cow on it, 'cos we're having comp'ny."—London Farm and Home.

Unchanged.

"That's just like Jim," said the widow, wearily, after a flapping curtain had knocked over the urn in which all that was mortal of her cremated husband had been placed and spread its contents on the floor. "Always dropping his ashes everywhere!"—Harper's Weekly.

His Turn Coming.

"What are you going to do when you grow up, if you don't know how to read, write and cipher?" asked a school teacher of a lazy, stupid boy. "I'm going to be a schoolmaster, and make the boys do all the readin', writin' and cipherin'," replied the boy.

Duck Stuffed With Gold.

When W. W. Meredith, a farmer at Woodland, Alberta, Canada, dressed some ducks for the local markets he found the stomachs of several birds filled with flake gold, seven of the pieces measuring from a sixteenth to an eighth of an inch in diameter.

Personal Wit in Pulpit.

The pulpit is not immune from wit in our own day, but seldom takes the personal form of a certain divine who, preaching a university sermon at Oxford, ended abruptly by remarking that he knew it was time to shutter his books because the doctor's men had now come, wiping their beards, from the alehouse," referring thus to the custom of the mace bearers, who were wont to repair to a neighboring public house during the preaching and returning only when they thought it was nearly over.

Get Sugar in Other Ways.

It is significant that the nations who consume the most oil and light wines all of which contain greater or less amounts of compounds of carbon and water, consume the least sugar per capita. The natives of Italy, Greece and Turkey, for example consume annually but one-twelfth of the amount of sugar per capita that is consumed by the natives of Great Britain.—American Food Journal.

Knew His Master's Politics.

During a general election in England a canvasser called at the house of the late Prof. Froude, the historian. Mr. Froude was out, so the canvasser interrogated the butler as to how Mr. Froude would vote. The butler—an old servant who understood his master well—replied: "When the liberals is in Mr. Froude is sometimes a conservative. When the conservatives is in Mr. Froude is always a liberal."

Limoges' China Industry.

Limoges has a world-wide reputation for its china. The industry has been carried on in this city for over a century. The excellence of its ware, its hardness, fineness of texture, perfect vitrification and translucency make it unsurpassed in the estimation of connoisseurs.

Sucrose is found in the fleshy roots, such as the beet, carrot, turnip and sweet potato, but thus far it is only from the beet that it has been obtained in quantities commercially profitable. The beet root today yields by far the greater part of the world's sugar supply.

Tasmania's Great Reservoir.

The island of Tasmania is located south of Australia. Its area is a little over 28,000 miles and it has a population of 191,000. In the middle of the island at an altitude of 3,400 feet is the Great Lake, a storage reservoir provided by nature.

Family Bible Substitute.

A man in custody at Willesden the other day was found to have "one arm tattooed with the story of his courtships and the names of his loves, while the other arm contained a record of his family bereavements."—Westminster Gazette.

THE EX-KAISER'S WEALTH

There is an absurd and futile effort to show that the former Kaiser could not have contributed to the costs of the Kapp insurrection because he is a "very poor man." When he fled toHolland it was said that he carried with him $5,000,000 in gold and treasures and had heavy bank deposits in foreign countries. It would be easy to deny this, but this is not all. Disclosures recently made in the Prussian parliament show that the former Kaiser still has holdings which make him enormously wealthy. It appears that when he fled to Holland the Prussian government took possession of the royal property and appointed an administrator over it. The German public learned that a settlement was made with the former emperor through agreement reached between him and the Junker leaders in charge of his property, but the details did not come out until the bill went before Parliament.

Of the agreement and bill we read: "The former monarch, according to this settlement, was to receive yearly what in normal times would amount to $25,0000,000. Furthermore by the bill presented to the Prussian parliament he was to retain all the most valuable portions of his real estate, including 83 villas and houses in Berlin, Potsdam and Kiel, and all his castles and forests in different parts of the country. Added to the real estate was the royal fortune in strong boxes, consisting of gold, industrial mortgages and very few war bonds." This bill is expected to pass the Prussian parliament with the "possible exception" of the $25,000,000 yearly allowance, against which a debt-burdened nation is protesting. Nevertheless it is made clear that the former Kaiser is still "by millions" the richest man in all Germany and can command ample funds for any purpose he may have in view. The mere fact that his vast property has not been confiscated shows that Germany is still imperial in real sentiment.

MEMORIAL AT THE MARNE

Americans are invited to contribute toward the erection of a great memorial statue on the Marne in token of our appreciation of what Joffre and his soldiers did there for the world as well as for France. Such contribution should be a pleasure as well as a duty. The $250,000 00(which the committee asks for this purpose is no great sum and should be easily raised, with even school children contributing their mite as is proposed.

The importance of the defeat of Von Kluck's army at the Marne in September, 1914, which put an end to the triumphant sweep of the Germans toward Paris, can not be overestimated. It did not end a war which, but for American intervention, might be in progress today. But it completely upset the clockwork of initial German success, ended in a rude awakening the German dream of a conquering rush through all Europe in a few months and brought the insolently assured Prussian down to thehard necessity of fighting desperately to secure every least advantage. Joffre punctured their mightiest bubble at the Marne and never again were the Germans able to dazzle their own eyes with just such another. After that, even with poison gas to give them an unfair advantage, they were compelled to dig trenches in the earth in order to save their skins. The first great turn of thetide was wrought by Joffre at the Marne and American intervention completed the work there begun.

GETTING BACK

According to recent government reports, the linen industry of the textile industry that suffered from the war. Most of the factories were destroyed and the machinery must be restored. But the silk mills of France were almost all located outside the invaded territory, and the cotton mills were injured to less than 25 per cent. France, therefore, will not be much delayed in getting back to normal conditions in those textile industries to which most of her attention was given.

THE HIGH COST OF MEAT

The London Times, in a recent issue, said: "The glut of imported meat grows worse. As a result of rationing during the last two years the consumption of beef and mutton in this country was greatly reduced and people, having once accustomed themselves to eating less are still restricting their purchases although ample supplies are now available."

It is estimated that there are 100,000 tons of meat in cold storage in certain parts of Great Britian. It is said that eight vessels now in dock have on board the equivalent of one million carcasses, and two other meat ships lying in the river carry approximately 315,000 carcasses. Another cold storage warehouse contains 1,650,000 carcasses and in other parts of England 3,300,000 carcasses are stored. It is estimated that in England in storage today are the carcasses of almost 7000,000 steers, while in the United States the British war Ministry has in our warehouses more than 300,000,000 pounds of hog products alone.

It was not so long ago that an official report showed that almost 250,000 children in New York were undernourished.

Yet wesuppose that beforelong we shall discover another plan to aid poor, hungry Great Britain by a loan.—N. Y. American.

INFLATION AND HIGH PRICES

In July, 1914, the paper currency in circulation in his country was 3 per cent in excess of the gold reserve. In December, 1919, the ratio had increased until the paper exceeded the gold by 92 per cent. In the same period of time the cost of living, that is, the cost of all items entering into the family budget, increased approximately 85 per cent. It is more than a coincidence that the degree of inflation of currency and prices bear so close a relation to each other. Increase of price is the inevitable corollary of currency inflation, and just so long as paper money is permitted to flood the cohntry just so long will the present high-price wave continue. Sporadic attempts of Mr. Palmer, or of Secretary Baker through his Army stores, to reduce living costs are spectacular, but their effect is slight and wholly temporary.

AS CONSTRUCTED

Under the construction placed upon the law by Judge Sessions in the Newberry case, when more than $3,750 had been spent in promoting a senatorial candidacy in Michigan those spending it become guilty of a criminal offense. Is there any one foolish enough as not to know that the friend of Henry Ford spent vastly more than $3,750 in his behalf? Is here any one unfair enough to contend that Senator Newberry and his friends should be prosecuted and Mr. Ford and his friends left untouched? Is there anyone so ignorant as not to know that this whole hing is a partisan persecution carried on by Woodrow Wilson with the vast influence of the government and the money of the federal treasury to aid him—Ft. Wayne New.

Not Worried About That.

Clergyman (visiting prison)—"I hope that when you are released you will live so that you can look your fellowman straight in the eye." The Bunco Man—"That is the simplest part of my business."—Puck.

Accidentally.

"I wonder how so many forest fires catch?" said Mrs. McBride. "Perhaps they catch accidentally from the mountain ranges," suggested Mr. McBride.—Christian Register.

Literary Note.

If boys tried to read between yellow covers some of the fiction that girls read these days under the name of late novels they would have to take their meals standing up.

Exception.

A Young Thing is fairly certain to think she knows more than her mother about everything but the kitchen work.—Atchison Globe.

Easy Question to Answer.

"Do you know what will happen if you tell a lie?" was asked a boy witness in an English court. "Yes, I shall tell a lie," was his answer.

Puncture Proof.

Giants and Pigmys.

It is also a noteworthy fact that both giants and dwarfs are the offspring of parents of normal height.

Point of View.

Fine Art of Visiting.

An Atchison girl who spends much of her time visiting has made a study of the art and is a very successful guest. One of the first things she does upon arriving is to call her hostess and family into her room and exhibit every rag she owns. She empties boxes, trays and trunks to the bottom layer. She says it saves her hostess the trouble of snooping among her things when she is out.—Atchison Globe.

Better Let the Women Tat.

Tatting is the least expensive sort of fancy work a woman can do. Many girls admit that they could crochet three balls of cotton while they are tatting one. Men, it will be easier on your pocketbooks if you let this harmless task go blithely on, for those gay sofa cushions are soon done and then thread and linen must be bought for a new one. For a woman's fingers must be employed.—Kansas Industrialist.

Importance of Being Married.

Men are nothing but overgrown children. They always love to eat and drink what is not good for them. You scarcely ever meet an unmarried man over forty who hasn't something wrong with him, and it would be the same with all the married men if their wives were not constantly on the watch to see that they only eat the things that agree with them.—The Gulf Between, by P. Y. Redmayne.

Small Boy Killed by Fowl.

A fowl killed a two-year-old child at St. Brieux, France, a few days ago. The little fellow was playing outside his parents' house when a large Cochin China cock attempted to take a piece of bread from his hand. The child and the cock struggled for the bread, and the cock attacked the child and hurt him so badly that he died shortly after.

Couldn't Go With Him.

A well-known lawyer in Boston had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross the mill dam bridge leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging, would induce him to cross without stopping. So he advertised him: "To be sold, for no other reason than that the owner wants to go out of town."

Undeserving.

Three Germans were engaged in a confidential talk while dining in a Broadway cafe a few days ago. Their conversation drifted from politics to the second marriage of a mutual friend, when one of them remarked: "I'll tell you vhat. A man vhat marries de second time don't deserve to have lost his first vife."—Lippincott's.

Irish Bull in Germany.

Much amusement has been caused by an official notice, published in the Hanover Anzeiger, saying an order has been made that "the last carriage shall not be attached to railway trains," as it is "always subject to unpleasant shocks and oscillation."

Sure Loss.

Mrs. Johnson—"Jes' hide youah money in a Bible, Mis' Jackson. Nobody evah looks in a Bible, you know." Mrs. Jackson (with a gasp)—"Oh, Lawd! I'd lose it shuah! Mah ole man's very religious, an' reads de Bible twice a day."—Puck.

Papa's Retort.

Young Man—"I should like to ask your advice, sir, as to whether you think your daughter would make a suitable wife." Lawyer—"No, I don't think she would. Five dollars, please."—New York Mail.

Quick Composition.

Bishop Heber, while on a visit to his father-in-law, Dean Stanley, wrote "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," in fifteen minutes, making only one correction, the change of "savage" for "heathens" in the second verse.

Pessimism Sometimes Welcome.

A little discreet pessimism may have its use. Some people scatter sunshine so recklessly that a certain amount of cooling shade is necessary to comfort.

Pygmy Types.

It is a fact that a "pygmy race" of men is found in tropical Africa and parts of southern Asia. They range from about four feet to about four and one-half feet in height.

Loquacious Diet.

Missionary (to cannibal)—"What makes your chief so talkative today?" Cannibal—"Oh, he ate a couple of barbers this morning."—Minnesota Minne-Ha-Ha.

Woman of Experience.

He—"If I am detained down town late tonight, don't wait up for me." She—"I shan't; I shall come down for you!"—Judge.

Just Think of It.

Think of the endless litigation which will probably be started when the meek inherit the earth.—Judge.

Modern Conditions.

FAU DRY GOODS CO.

Merit and Modesty.

Men are too much occupied with themselves to have leisure to know others thoroughly, or to discern their real character; hence it happens that with a great merit and a greater modesty, one may be a long time lost sight of.—La Bruyere.

Built That Way.

Rankin—"Every time I get up to try to make a speech I can feel my knees knocking together." Fyle—"Naturally. If your legs bent outward, as mine do, instead of bending inward, you wouldn't have any of that trouble."

Be Cheerful.

"Be cheerful when you eat," said a doctor reecnly to an interviewer, "and you will be able to enjoy anything." The man who tackles a railway sandwich ought to approach it screaming with laughter.

Unreasonable.

Irate Customer—"You said this cloth was a fast color, yet it faded in two weeks after it was made up." Draper—"Well I don't think you ought to expect it to fade any faster than that."

Soap Bubbles.

A mixture of castile soap, glycerin and ammonia with rain water or distilled water gives a bubble that can be blown very thin and will last a long time before bursting. For especially good results make the mixture three days before it is to be used.

Killed by Peashooter.

"Shot to death with a peashooter" was the verdict of the coroner's jury investigating the demise of Mrs. Jessie Archer in London, England. It was found that she ruptured the aorta when the vegetable, shot from a boy's artillery, hit her in the face.

Slight Mistake.

Some men found guilty of robbery confessed, the other day, that they did it in order to start business. They had better have kept to the usual procedure and started business first.—London Passing Show.

Make Themselves Miserable.

It is not so much happiness as impatience that from time to time possesses men, and then they choose to call themselves miserable.—Goethe.

Turning Up The Worms

You have noticed that a kind word to the robin and the turning up of an earthworm occasionally so tames them that one could almost strike them with a spade if so disposed.

Our bargains we are turning up every week; not with a desire to have anyone "eat out of our hand" but with the hope that our efforts and economies may so closely knot our friendship with our trade that it will be most pleasurable, from their point of view, to return to us, time after time, with their business, for which we are always most happy to acknowledge our appreciation.

The Silk Fashion in India.

There are 1,000,000 people in India engaged in the production of silk. Caterpillars and moths of the mulberry silk industry of India are entirely domesticated creatures. The Indians collect the cocoons spun by caterpillars and allow them to hatch. The females are kept until they lay eggs, and when the caterpillars are large enough they are placed on trees to feed. When a tree is stripped a piece of cloth is hung from a limb and the caterpillars crawl into it and are moved to another tree. Tasar, or tussore silk, comes from China and Japan. Muga silk is a product of Assam. Eri silk comes from caterpillars which feed on the castor oil plant. Eri silk is of great value in India, because it is the only silk that can be spun from cocoons without killing the insects in the cocoons, and is therefore the only silk that can be worn by a strict Hindu, to whom the taking of life is forbidden.

Blood-Sprinkling Natives.

New Guinea still holds fast to some of its gruesome social customs. Mankilling is viewed as a perfectly honorable act if the occasion demands it, but the British government, through its agents, is trying to persuade the tribes that the killing of a wild boar, instead of a man, is an equally sound proof of valor, and in many instances they have been successful. Some natives believe that the ghosts of the dead exert an influence on the food supply, and in order to propitiate these food controllers they go headhunting, and put the heads of their victims on a shrine bearing a carved representation of the ancestral ghost. In other parts of the island there is a conviction that a new house should not be occupied or a new canoe launched until it has been sprinkled with the blood of a man killed for the purpose.

Pays to Give One's Best.

There is a great difference between going just right and a little wrong—between superiority and mediocrity—between the fairly good and the best. And there is something in the determination always to keep up the standards in thought, or in whatever we do in life, whether it is hoeing corn, mending shoes, or making laws for a nation—something that gives an upward tendency—an inspiring quality, that is lacking in the character of the groveling man with low ideals. There is, in the upward struggle involved in giving one's best to what one is doing, something that enlists and develops the highest faculties and calls out the truest and noblest qualities.—Orison Swett Marden, in Chicago News.

President McKinley.

On the 29th of January, in 1843, William McKinley, twenty-fifth president of the United States, was born at Niles, O. It was during McKinley's second term as president, on September 6, 1901, that he was shot at the Buffalo exposition by Leon Czolgosz, an anarchist. The president died eight days later from a wound made by a bullet which penetrated his stomach and lodged in the muscles of his back. The chief events of McKinley's administration were the Spanish-American war and the acquiring of the Philippines, Porto Rico, and Guam, the annexation of Hawaii, and the expedition under General Chaffee in the Boxer insurrection.

Man's Daily Food Needs.

The average daily food consumption of an adult man is placed by Raymond Pearl at 114 grammes of protein, 127 of fat, and 488 of carbohydrate—supplying a total energy of 3,424 calories. Grains yield 35 per cent of the calories of energy in the American diet, meats 22, dairy products 15, sugars 13, vegetables 5, vegetable oils and nuts 5, poultry 2, fruits 2. Of the protein, 36 per cent is [illegible] grains and 26 from meats; of the fat, 51 per cent is supplied by meats (44 by pork), and 27 by dairy products; and of the carbohydrates 50 per cent comes from grains and 23 from sugars.

Some [illegible] tea [illegible] was first introduced at the [illegible] of the tower of Babel, thence hand [illegible] down by Enoch who communicated it to Hiram Abiff, under whom at the building of the temple of Solomon was an expert architect named Mahmon Graecus, who, according to legendary lore, introduced it into England.

Rather a Good Idea.

"Some invalids," remarked Dr. Branney, "regard themselves as so interesting that instead of being willing to pay they think they ought to charge the physician an admittance fee."

Want an Argument.

Some men stay away from church because it frets them to see a man talk for as much as half an hour without being contradicted.—Washington Star.

"We're always meeting friends"

—Chesterfield

OVER three million smokers—over three million friends—know the "satisfying" goodness of Chesterfield's expert blend of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos.

These smokers know that such richness of flavor, such mellowness of taste, can only come from the choicest tobaccos, bought and blended by experts.

And they know that the Chesterfield blend is an exclusive blend, that it cannot be copied or even closely imitated. They know that only Chesterfields can "satisfy."

But—how about you?

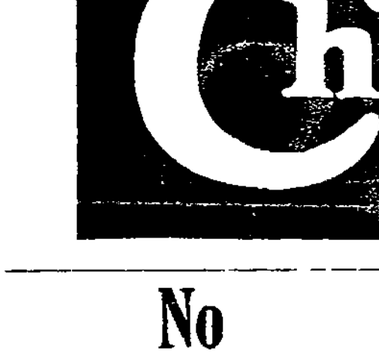
No More Corn Suffering

"Gets-It" Never Leaves a Corn On Any Foot For Very Long.

The hurting "pep" goes right out of that corn the moment a few drops of "Gets-It" lands thereon. It is through, and "for keeps"



Corns and "Gets-It" Can't Live Together

You'll have no more pain but will notice the corn getting loose and wobbly. In a day or so, you lift it right off without any feeling. That's the end of the corn and of your troubles. Millions have proved "Gets-It" to be the one and only unfailing, common sense corn remover. Why not you?

"Gets-It" costs but a trifle at any drug store and carries a money-back guarantee. Mf'd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Charleroi and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Frank J. John and Piper's Pharmacy. Carrolls Drug Store.

as a violin duet, which was given a careful interpretation.

The program throughout was one of unusual excellence, and each number was given in a manner which betokened much preparation reflecting credit on both performer and director. The different accompaniments were well played by Miss Alice Peach and Miss Harriet Underwood, assistant pianist of the orchestra whose services added in no small measure to the success of the concert.

DREDGE BOAT WILL SOON BE AT WORK

The Monongahela and Ohio Dredging Company, which has the contract to do the dreging at the big harbor improvements for the Pittsburg Steel company at the Monessen plant, expects to start work at that point within a day or two. The company's dredge Kanawha, which has been undergoing extensive repairs at Dravo's Neville Island ways, was expected to be launched on Tuesday. The steamer William Fieger, which has been operating at the mouth of the Beaver river, has been ordered to bring the Kanawha to Monessen.

WASHINGTON GIVEN THE HIGHEST HONORS

Washington high school basket ball team has been named undisputed champion of Washington county. The Washington County Interscholastic Association at a recent meeting appointed Dr. L. F. Kirchner, physical director of Washington & Jefferson college to pass upon the merits of the various teams aspiring for the title and give them their ranking. He has completed the work and on Tuesday made his announcement to the county oranization. In the list Charleroi is placed sixth with two victories and six defeats.

THOMPSON WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE

Col. Joe Thompson, late of the 110th Infantry, whose nomination papers for United States senator were circulated last week, has decided not to enter the race, and consequently his papers were not filed at Harrisburg on Thursday. This leaves the field clear for Senator Penrose, who is a candidate for renomination and relection.

INCREASE VALUE OF THE LILLEY ESTATE

The total appraisement of the estate of the late Thomas E. Lilley as made by representatives of the Auditor General's office brings its value up to $2,575,506.54. The register of Wills of Washington county has recommended that credits be allowed amounting to $483,774.33, making a net balance subject to the collateral inheritance of $2,091,732.21.

The executors and counsel claim that the appraisement is most excessive and are considering an appeal on all in excess of $1,844,455.62. The tax on this latter amount at 5 per cent amounts to $87,611.64, which amount has just been paid by the executors of the estate.

The Lilley estate includes 1620 shares of stock in the Lilley Coal company and has been appraised at $648,000.00; royalties due and to became due from the Lilley Coal company on mining contracts for the mining of Lilley coal at present value, estimated at $763,560.30; royalties from the Lilley Coal company for 1919, amounting to $123,975.02. The balance of the estate is made up of household goods, notes, book accounts cash live stock and farming implements.

The eventh annual meeting of the Allegheny County Alumni Association of the Indiana State Normal School, will be held in the ball room on the 17th floor of the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburg, Saturday afternoon April 10th, at one o'clock in the afternoon. A luncheon will be served at 1:30 and will be followed by short addresses by Dr. D. J. Waller, former principal. Hon. Jno. S. Fisher, banking commissioner, and Miss Jane Leonard. Dr. John A Keith, the present principal, if his health permits, will act as toastmaster.

TO ERECT REPAIR SHOP AT SECOND ST.

A building permit was issued by the borough clerk on Wednesday morning for the erection of a concrete block building, 38x50, at the corner of Fallowfield avenue and Second streets, which will be used as a automobile repair shop and accessory store. The permit was taken out by Clel and C. W. Sutherland, who will begin work on the improvement at once.

SILK SHIRTS NOT A LUXURY IN MONESSEN

A merchant on Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen, on Saturday night last, sold nine silk shirts, each priced at $16.50 and all of them were sold to foreigners evidently mill workers. Other dealers in the town also reported sales of the same character which is an evidence that in spite of the high cost of living, we must havesilk shirts regardless of price.

TRAFFIC OBSTRUCTED ON DONORA BRIDGE

A loaded truck broke through the roadway on the Donora-Webster bridge at 7 o'clock this morning and completely tied up all traffic. The truck was in such a position as it was impossible for other machines to pass it, while the cars on the bridge was situated that they could not get back off the bridge. It required several hours' work to get the truck back on the roadway again and restore normal conditions. The Earle Engineering company is laying a block roadway on the bridge and as a consequence trucks and machines are considerably restricted in their movements.

ASKING BIDS FOR THE MONONGAHELA PIKE

The State Highway Department will open bids on the 27th of April for the reconstruction of 16,137 linear feet of one-course reinforced concrete pavement in Somerset and Nottingham townships. TRIUMPH FOR AMERICAN SKILL

Successful Method Evolved by Which Dressed Sealskins May Be Made Thoroughly Pliable.

American workmen have been successful, after workmen of several other nations failed, in evolving a system of treating sealskins to make them more valuable.

For many years furriers had desired a black dye with which to treat sealskins successfully. The mode had always been a brownish luster. First, the French announced a black dye, but this dye ruined the fur by causing it to rapidly disintegrate.

The British then worked out a system of dyeing the sealskins black, but they could not make the skin pliable and garments made from them were awkward. The lack of soft tanning and the thick leather made it impossible to get the flares and degrees of drape desired in garments.

Today the Alaskan seal, under the American method, is as supple and may be as easily manipulated as the kid of a lady's glove or a fine piece of chiffon velvet. It is not an exaggeration to say that an entire dressed skin can be drawn through a small napkin ring. The credit for the flexibility is due to the machinery and process installed in St. Louis and known as the Funsten St. Louis method.—St. Louis Times.

ZINC STENCILS FOUND BEST

Material Has Many Advantages Over Any Other Used in the Making of Those Articles.

Zinc is being introduced and made rather extensive use of at the present time in the manufacture of stencils, as a substitute for other metals and paper. Not only is zinc the only material that does not stretch and buckle in continuous use, but it has several other important advantages.

The cutting and making of paper stencils involves the same skilled work as a stencil made of zinc, and a zinc stencil will reproduce ten thousand copies. Zinc retains its flat shape indefinitely. Another feature that recommends zinc's use is the low cost of producing the finished stencil, the metal possessing qualities that permit stamping as many as one thousand stencils in one operation.

When the manufacturer realizes the economy and value of zinc stencils as compared with others it will mean vastly increased demand for that metal. Stencils form the background of almost every manufactured article from laces to showcases.

Negotiations now are being carried on to supply Japanese producers with zinc stencils for use in stamping silk designs to replace the slower and more expensive hand methods now in vogue.

New British Wheats.

Sir Daniel Morris stated at the last meeting of the British association that as a result of the recent plant-breeding work done by Biffen, at Cambridge, new wheats have been grown over extensive areas in eastern England, yielding crops at the rate of 50 to 60 bushels per acre, and even 77 bushels in the case of one area of 27 acres. The average yield in England is 32 bushels per acre. Besides being more productive, the new wheats are less liable to disease and make better flour than the ordinary English wheats. In India, the Pusa wheats, developed by the Howards, will soon be grown over an area of 5,000,000 acres, and are expected to increase the value of the wheat crop in India to the extent of $25,000,000 annually. —Scientific American.

Year's Walk to Palestine.

After a year's journey on foot, Aharon Gabrielow, a Caucasian Jew, recently arrived in Jerusalem, according to a report received by the Zionist organization of America.

This modern pilgrim, whose sufferings and hardships equaled those endured on similar attempts to reach the holy city during the middle ages, walked through Caucasia and Persia, via Bagdad, to get to the Holy land. According to the records of the Zionist organization, it is the longest journey ever made entirely on foot in the daring attempts of Jews in the last few years to break through the barriers of their native countries and get to Palestine.

"I suppose you got your winter coal in before the great strike didn't you?" was asked of Mr. Thompson.

"Well, I fixed it another way," was the reply.

"In what way?"

"Why, I got to thinking what 12 tons of coal would cost and we moved into a house where there were already two families. Three families of us in eight rooms, you see, and we each pay one-third of the cost of heating. There are six of us grown folks and eleven children, and so far the house has been so hot that we haven't had to burn half a dozen scuttles of coal. Try my plan once and you will take no other."

Shah Believes in Mascots.

Probably no monarch is a more firm believer in the power of the mascot than the young shah of Persia. He has nearly 200 mascots, most of them heirlooms, which have played some part in the history of his predecessors. Chief among these is a cube of amber which, according to eastern lore, fell from heaven in Mahomet's time. It is supposed to ward off danger, and the shah usually wears it round his neck.

EX-CZAR REAL JOY KILLER

Ex-Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria always had a great fondness for rings, and his delicate, tapering fingers usually were loaded with rare jewels. A Russian princess who was a guest of Ferdinand at a dinner in Sophia once admired especially a ring that he wore—a pearl surrounded by rubies.

"That ring pleases you?" asked Ferdinand, who had noticed her interest in it. And then, in the haughty tone which was his wont, he added: "A tear encircled by drops of blood. Permit me to put it on your finger."

Leaning toward her, he continued, nonchalantly:

"It is a gift that has just been sent to me by one of the most notorious bandits on the Bulgarian frontier, a truly remarkable man. He it is who holds the record for the number of hands he has cut off his victims. I have no doubt that he got this ring from a finger just as charming as yours."

"But don't be disturbed, madame. This ring which I have the honor of offering you was given to me without the finger."

The princess never knew whether the czar was serious or whether he was trying to confuse her. She never wore the ring.

QUEEN GAVE NAME TO CITY

Marinette, Wis., known as the "Queen City," is named after Queen Marinette, who was the daughter of Barthoiome Chevalier, whose wife was an Indian woman, daughter of Wabeshish a noted Menominee chief. Marinette, who came to the Menominee river as Mme. Farnsworth, was a woman of great shrewdness and intelligence, kind-hearted, generous and much respected by the Indians.

The queen's house was the first frame house on the Menominee river. The building was within the blockade erected by Louis Chappee, surrounded by a fine garden and an orchard. Apple trees planted by Queen Marinette are growing in the yard. Marinette's son, John B. Jacobs, had a trading post on the river just across the road and a little west of Marinette's house. He was interested in boats and owned and ran the steamer Queen City, between Menominee and Green Bay, for many years.

A Business Letter.

"Mr. John Doe:

"Dear Sir—I will kindly write you a few lines. Mr. Doe I will explean this propersision to you in a good and square way. Everythink is so heigh now and it lookes like everythink is going up yet. The question is this. I stayed with this firm so long now almost four years and I dont wand to leave this firm except I have to. I wanded to be right in every way. Mr. Doe I wanded ask you first. I bin offered to me here late-ley $25.00 a week and straight time. For a well educated clark, Mr. Doe I don't think that is to much for a man what knows the business like I do. I'm certely willing to stay with this firm if you think you pay me $23.00 and straight time per week. I'm always at the job rain or shine except I'm sick or have to lay off, and I don't mind the work either. I do anythink what comes to my hand, and I will not ask you any more for a race. So I will close forever.

"Yours truly."

The evening meal was almost over and the table conversation had turned to a discussion of high prices.

"I know a haberdasher on Pennsylvania street that is selling his stock at half price," volunteered a young member of the family.

"Your uncle knows that man real well," said grandmother, between sips of tea.

"What man are you speaking of?" queried mother, a bit puzzled.

"Why, that Mr. Haberdasher," returned grandmother, with an air of innocence.

Grandmother is still to be convinced that Mr. Haberdasher is not his name, for hasn't she read it with her own eyes, some place up over the door?—Indianapolis News.

Extent of Tobacco Industry.

More than $1,500,000,000 a year is the value of tobacco products manufactured in the United States. More than a million and a half acres of land are devoted to the growing of the "weed." On the manufacturing side, the government estimate of the capital invested in 1914 was $303,840,000, which was a low figure even then and is greatly exceeded now. The number of wage earners in manufacture in that year was 178,872, and their annual earnings $77,856,000. There are many ramifications of the industry, including the making of cigarette paper, paper and tin foil containers for cigarettes and cigar boxes. Altogether the dollars invested in and around the tobacco business are a huge sum.

ELDERLY MAN GOOD WALKER

Brooklyn Citizen, Fond of Pedestrianism, Has a Record That Few Are Likely to Equal.

Garret Brower of this city walked 2,000 miles when he was ninety years old. He is now ninety-seven years old and for the past three years he has given up walking as a regular occupation. But for about 12 years before that he walked persistently, in bad weather and good, on week days and holidays. And this at a time when he had long passed beyond the three score and ten years supposed to be man's allotted span of life.

He used to walk with a pedometer at his belt as his only companion. From his former home on Willoughby avenue, he would walk out to the Williamsburg bridge and across to Manhattan. This not appearing long enough for a grownup man, he often would walk back to the Brooklyn end of the bridge and then cross and recross the bridge two or three times before starting home. In his diary he kept a record of the distances covered on these expeditions. They varied from month to month; but seven years ago, when he had reached the age of ninety, his walks still averaged six miles a day. Being now close to the century mark, he has discontinued walking out of doors. "A friend borrowed my pedometer," he explained with a laugh.—Brooklyn Eagle.

FIND NEW SOURCE OF SUGAR

Scientists Have Learned From Indians That It Can Be Produced From the Douglas Fir.

An Indian secret closely guarded for generations by the red man has been brought to light by John Davidson, botanist of the University of British Columbia, at Vancouver, and James Teit, who has spent most of his life in the interior of the Canadian province and has an intimate knowledge of the life and habits of the natives. The secret is that the Douglas fir—a famous tree of great size—produces sugar that is extremely sweet and is valued at $66 a pound.

The announcement is made by the American Forestry association, through an article written by Francis Dickie and published in the American Forestry Magazine. The area in which this sugar is found in abundance is between the fiftieth and fifty-first parallels and between 121 and 122 degrees of longitude. These areas take in the Thompson river valley, west of the mouth of Nicola river, the district near the junction of the Fraser and Thompson rivers at Lytton and a small part of the Fraser valley above Lillooett. In the Kamloops district, the Nicola and Similwameen valleys and the eastern part of the state of Washington the sugar is also reported to be found.

Unconventional "Professions."

Some of the unconventional "professions" which have developed in after-war England include the man who guarantees to be able to furnish an afternoon or evening's pleasant conversation at a moderate fee. Another ex-officer, who says he became an efficient letter writer while in the trenches in Flanders, will write breezy letters to interesting people for "so much per." Owing to the ravages of the war on old-established fortunes, scores of highly placed women are trying to obtain jobs as chaperones or companions to women and girls who have to travel. Others are willing to share in the management of large houses for a nominal wage. Thousands of girls, some of them of title, are applying for jobs as cinema actresses.

Scots Spurn Sunday Work.

Lord Leverhulme has encountered the religious prejudices of the Scotsmen who live on the extensive property he has purchased in the Outer Hebrides and has suffered a rebuff. He had planned to make Stornoway, on the island of Lewis, the headquarters of a huge fishing fleet that would sweep the seas for 500 miles around. The project involved Sunday labor, and the islanders, who adhere to the strict and intense form of the Presbyterian faith, rejected it.

Commenting on the incident, the London periodical, Common Sense, says: "Lord Leverhulme is a man of big ideas and new ideas, while the population over whom he has declared the rights of lairdship are folk of old and intense ideas. Hence the inevitable collision."

What is unofficially considered to be the meanest type of crime in England in the last five years is the "cook grabber." It is a crime from which men have held aloof. The crime consists of luring a cook away from one's neighbor. So great has been the shortage of cooks that desperate housewives have resorted to quietly engaging their neighbors' cooks in conversation at the kitchen doorway and promising higher wages and better hours. In any gathering of women the consensus of opinion is that a cook in the kitchen is worth a hundred anywhere else.

Precautions.

"If we take any summer boarders this year," remarked Farmer Cornssel, "I'm goin' to fix up a questionaire that everybody'll have to answer."

"What for?" inquired his wife.

"So's they'll all have about the same political opinions. I'm tired of bein' up awake half the night by people sittin' out on the front porch arguin'."

First National Election.

The first national election in the United States was held January 7, 1789. The presidential electors so chosen met in February to vote for president and vice president. Each elector voted for two candidates for the highest office, under a provision that the candidate receiving the largest number of votes was to be declared president, while the second choice had to be content with the vice presidency. George Washington received 69 votes, and was elected president, while John Adams, with 34 votes, became vice president. Others receiving votes were John Jay of New York, 9; R. H. Harrison of Maryland, 6; John Rutledge of South Carolina, 6; John Hancock of Massachusetts, 3; Samuel Huntington of Connecticut, 2; John Hirst of Georgia, 3; James Armstrong of Georgia, 1; Edward Telfair of Georgia, 1; Benjamin Lincoln of Massachusetts, 1. Before the 1804 election the Constitution was changed, so that electors voted for a president and a vice president.

Treating a Felon.

When Dr. Douglas H. Stewart wants to abort a felon or whitlow, he paints it with a solution made by putting one grain of cabonol into two ounces each of iodine, glycerin and alcohol. Then he bandages it in a salve containing equal parts of belladonna and glycerin acidi tannici. He splints the finger as if it were fractured. This treatment he describes in the Western Medical Times. He goes on to tell how he dissects out a felon under local anesthesia, even going right through the bone in order to drain the medullary cavity. His method is that of nerve blocking. One way is to paint two rings around the finger, one with a solution of novocaine, the other with quinine and urea hydrochloride and to inject the same solutions in two areas around the spot where the cutting is to be done.

Warlock.

Warlock is an archaic word, that is, it belongs to or has the characteristic of a former period, and is no longer in common use. It means a male witch, a wizard, a sorcerer. It is derived from two ancient Saxon words: waer, a compact, and leogan, a lie, that is a compact with falseness, with evil. Although an archaic word, it is used by the famous novelist, Robert Louis Stevenson, and will be found, for instance, in the short story, "The Isle of Voices," which forms part of the Island Nights Entertainments. In the fantastic story of "The Isle of Voices," the old sorcerer is called a warlock, a word that although out of common use, seems to suit the makeup of the character of the story.

Limerick's Claims to Fame.

Limerick has been linked up with other things besides verses and medieval conquest. Limerick laces were at one time renowned, until they were so widely copied that their originality was lost. Today Limerick is famous chiefly for bacon and pretty girls. The natives claim the very prettiest Irish girls grow up in Limerick. As for the bacon, 350,000 pigs are killed in the town yearly, and yet pigs swarm in its streets, yards and houses. Limerick bacon and ham seldom reach the American table but throughout the British isles they are regarded as the best in the world.

Civil War Bred Colonels.

The distinguished mark that came out of the civil war was the military title aggrandized. Men who entered the army as privates came out as captains and those who went in as officers came out as colonels or generals. A great many of these titles were self conferred, if we are to believe the confidential tales of the comrades of the recipients of these titles, but also a great many of them were conferred as brevets in a regular way and remained as the official title of the soldier concerned, even though he may never have exercised the actual authority his rank implied.

The original meaning of grange was what is expressed by the old Latin name, granum, meaning either the farm attached to a middle age monastery or the granary or building where grain was kept in store. In Lincolnshire and other northern counties of England a lone farm came to be called a grange, and many farms are so called in England today. The house and outbuilding of these lone farms or granges of the middle ages were usually surrounded by a moat, a work of defense against raiders; and although out of use many of these moats or graze ditches still exist.

Sounds Like Mark Twain.

According to a more or less authentic story, Mark Twain was looking out his window on the street one wintry night when the world was cold and dark with sleet and rain. As the warmth of his room enveloped him, and thoughts of past experience came back to him, he said: "Some dog of a lecturer is out in that storm."

Early Glass Manufacture.

The first oven devoted to glass production in Bohemia was erected in 1442, and with the passing of time ovens rapidly increased in capacity and number. Invariably they were built in deep forests, in order to insure an inexpensive and sufficient fuel supply and to keep the noxious gases as far as possible from settlements.

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

VOLUME XX—NO. 261. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1920 TWO CENTS

WILL GIVE CLOSE ATTENTION TO ALL AUTOMOBILE SPEEDERS

State Highway Department To Enforce All Its Regulations

CANDIDATES ARE ALSO WARNED

Harrisburg, April 9—The State Highway Department today announced that its Automobile Division inspectors have been instructed to pay attention to automobile speeders on the Lincoln Highway and particularly the drivers of fleets of new machines being brought into or taken through Pennsylvania from factories in Illinois, Michigan and other western States.

"New automobiles bear on the wind shields a warning notice cautioning drivers not to exceed a speed of 25 miles an hour for at least 50 miles," said Benj. G. Eynon, Registrar of the Automobile Division. "Our advices are that the drivers of the majority of new cars traveling through Pennsylvania are driven at top speed. This is particularly true of the cars which are taken over the Lincoln Highway. Many complaints have reached the Highway Department. Borough authorities complain that drivers of new cars in particularly violate speed ordinances and ordinances relative to local traffic. On the open stretches of road drivers of new machines indulge in racing. The damage done these new machines is a matter for the dealers and their customers. The State Highway Department is interested however, in seeing to it that violations of the low cease immediately and its inspectors and the state police will at once take steps to break up the practice."

Must Not Placard The Highways.

In advance of the May primary election the State Highway Department has issued the following statement:

Candidates for various offices in the coming primary election will conserve their resources if they will refrain from posting advertising cards of all natures on State highways. The law very plainly forbids this practice and the Department has issued instructions to its employees in every county in Pennsylvania to remove from poles, fences or other places within the legal limits of the highways advertising of every nature.

Street Markers Needed

The State Highway Department has received numerous inquiries concerning the marking of entrances and exits in various municipalities of Pennsylvania.

Not only strangers in Pennsylvania, but Pennsylvanians themselves declare it almost an impossibility to find their way out of communities of large size. In the majority of Pennsylvania cities of the third class there areno direction signs and the traveler must make inquiry. Replying to these complaints the Department has answered that the marking of streets within the limits of the municipalities is not in its province, but must be handled by the muncipal authorities themselves. In several instances, the Department notes, Chambers of Commerce or Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs have taken up the marking proposition.

Contractors Beginning Work

As rapidly as possible, District Engineers for the State Highway Department are notifying contractors to begin their 1920 operations. In many sections of the State construction is an impossibility at this time because of the wet subgrade on projects begun last year and the general water-soaked condition of new projects.

At the conclusion of the 1919 season approximately 190 projects were under construction. Since that time an additional 50 contracts have been awarded so that within a month contractors will be working on 240 road building operations in various parts of the State.

This will mean that there will be at least 240 detours. The Extension Bureau of the State Highway Department within a few days will again issue its weekly bulletins on the location and condition of detours.

ANOTHER COAL SALE IN GREENE COUNTY

Another tract of coal land has been purchased by the Greene Improvement company of Pittsburg, which has recently bought a large acreag in eastern Greene county. In the latest deal the company purchased 53.521 acreas in Cumberland township, paying $26,760 or at the ratte of $500 per acre.

Program of the High School Orchestra a Splendid Effort

The fifth annual concert of the Charleroi high school orchestra held at the auditorium, last evening, was unusually well patronized and that those present derived pleasure from the occasion was evidenced by the many complimentary remarks made relative to the excellence of the evening's entertainment The programtm presented was a most meritorious one, and the manner in which the different numbers were interpreted proved two things most conclusively—that the community has, in the high school orchestra, an organization of which it might well feel proud, and that there is an abundance of talent among the members of the student body, which is being given an exclint opportunity to develop.

One of the outstanding features of last evening's program was the singing of the Amphion Male Quartette. This was the organization's first public appearance, and that its offerings were appreciatel was attested by the loud applause bestowed. The quartette sang two numbers—Eullard's "Winter Song," and Edward German's 'Rollin' Down to Rio."—and in each instance was compelled to respond to encores, complying with Robinson's "At Twilight," and Nevin's "Bells of Shandon.' The organization is an excellent one. in every respect. and should be hard often. Mrs. May Barth Kinder. the quartette's accompanist, performed her duties in a most commendable manner. The membership of the quartette is as follows: Chester C. Humphreys and Warren Kinder. tenors; Joseph H. Pearson, baritone; I. T. Daniel, bass.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel, contributed five numbers to the evening's program, and performed the duties allotted to its membership in a highly creditable manner. The playing of the organization was characterized by careful attention to the details of expression, which conduced to most satisfactory interpretations of the different selections.

The Misses Virginia Mounser and Blanche Urben contributed a piano duet, "Le Papillo," by Chaminade, in a manner which drew forth loud applause, and they were compelled to bow their acknowledgments. Irwin Lichter's cornet solo, "Harbor Lights," was a most commendable effort Herbert Lichter gave a splendid rendering of Raff's "Cavatina," as a violin solo. and in response to continued and well merited applause played the "Meditation," from Massenet's "Thais." Miss Dorothy D Dryden's singing of Mascheroni's "For All Eternity," with violin obligato by Miss Edith Jenkins, proved a most genial surprise to her many friends. She was liberally applauded for her excellent work. Miss Alice R. Peach. the efficient and painstaking accompanist of the orchestra, closed the first part of the program with a piano solo, Ungarisch." by MacDowell, which she played in a most efficient manner.

Miss Edith Jenkins was heard in Vieniawski's "Lekende." and this capable young violinist swelled her list of admirers by her splendid interpretation of this difficult number. She was loudly applauded. Miss Gertrude Piersol followed with Huntington-Woodman's "A Birthday" which she sang with splendid effect, dislaying asoprano voice of much promise. The Misses Jenkins, Michener, Leque and Trnavsky, gave an effective rendring of Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire." arranged for four violins: while Miss Jenkins and Curtis Thomas were heard in Gabriel-Marie's ever popular. "La Cinquataine," arranged

Many Claims Are Allowed Against Associated Doctors

Before Paul R. Nutt, Justice of the Peace on Thursday afternoon, came up for a hearing the claims of a number of plaintiffs against the Associated Doctors, whose offices were closed by the local Board of Health a few weeks ago. The plaintiffs had made claim for certain amounts of money, both for services rendered and to be rendered. These claims were entered a few days after the offices had been closed, the plaintiffs being mostly out of town patients.

The defendants not appearing to contest the claims. the Justice rendered a decision for the plaintiffs in the total sum of $1.265.00 An execution was then issued and a levy will be made on the equipment and paraphernalia of the Associated Doctors, which is now in storage at the Latchem warehouse. Unless the defendants redeem the goods they will be sold to satisfy the claims.

At the same time the effects of the Associated Doctors were attached by Constable Corey, at the time the offices were closed, the household goods of "Dr." Cameron were also attached, being held for claims made against him. These proceedings will likely wind up the affairs of the Associated Doctors in Charleroi.

YARD TRAINMEN ON THE P. & L. E. STRIKE THIS MORNING

MILLS AND MINES AFFECTED

The yard trainmen of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, from Glassport to Brownsville inclusive, went out on a strike at 7 o'clock this morning. Decision to take this step was made on Thursday at a meeting held in McKeesport, and was an unexpected outcome of present conditions. The strike is a sympathetic one, and unauthorized by the railroad brotherhoods. The strike affects thirty-five crews on the Monongahela Division, and as a consequence freight conditions along the line from McKeesport to Brownsville are in bad shape. Mills and mines were caught in an unexpected manner. As a consequence all coal mines on this stretch of railroad had to close down today, while the mills will be badly affected within a few days unless there should be some relief. Passenger and local freight service will not be affected, at least for the present.

Conditions in the West have assumed alarming proportions. Over 25,000 men connected with the switchmen's union and yard service work are out on a strike, and as a consequence there is but little car movement. Many large industries at many points throughout the country closed down today because they could not obtain fuel and other necessary supplies. The big mills at Gary, Ind., and at Buffalo, N. Y., were compelled to close down on account of the strike. Thousands of cars loaded with food products are on various sidings and cannot be moved until the trouble is settled. It is feared that in many sections a food and fuel famine may result.

Railroad officials say the strike is caused by a "rump" union without authority from the brotherhood men. It is reported that some of the railroad men say that while the strike is unauthorized the brotherhoods are doing nothing to stop the movement.

Developments within the next day or two are being anxiously awaited by the railroad management as well by all industries.

GOOD SHOWING FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

Miss Minnie Richardson, treasurer of the Charleroi Near East Relief Fund, makes the following report of the receipts and disbursements as they pertain to her office: Total receipts, $1,312.60. Expenses postage $3.50; printing $9.75 and check to R B. Leslie. county treasurer, $1,309.35.

OFFENDER GIVEN 90 DAYS TO JAIL

Constable Corey on Thursday took to the county jail one Henry Trautwein a vagrant, who had been arrested by Pennsylvania Railroad officer F. M. Jones. Trautwein was committed to the county bastile for a period of 90 days, during which time he will be the guest of Sheriff Cray.

Trautwein had been annoying the tower man operator at the Bamford railroad tower on Monday and Tuesday and had attempted to make an entrance to the operating room, but was prevented by passers-by However, it appears that he did not give up his attempts, but remained in the vicinity of the tower for a couple of days, when the railroad police were notified and Officer Jones made the arrest.

When brought before the Justice he admitted that while for a time he had been employed at the Charleroi plate work, he had no permanent place of abode, but wandered around from place to place, picking up his living by begging. The Justice deemed it wise that he have some permanent living place for a time at least and he committed the prisoner to jail.

MINER INJURED AT CHARLEROI COAL WORKS

Sam Paulina, a miner employed at the Charleroi Coal works, was injured by a fall of slate on Friday. shortly before noon. As the ambulance was away at Washington in charge of Chief Albright at the time, it was necessary for J. Ed. Wilson, driver of the fire truck to take the police patrol and convey the injured man to the hospital. Paulina's hip was badly injured in the mine accident.

FOUND ACTOR NOW IN COUNTY JAIL

Leopold Clement. arrested some time ago on a serious charge, but who was released on bail. subsequently arrested on two other criminal charges, and who has been confined at the borough lockup for several days, was taken to jail at Washington on Friday by Chief Albright. Clement could not secure bail on the two additional charges made against him.
